EWS3: Online Adaptive Learning on Nursing Training Webinar

Course information:

Area9 Lyceum – The world’s leader in adaptive learning systems :Founded by physicians and computer scientists, and headquartered in Copenhagen, New York and Boston, Area9 combines more than 20 years of research into human factors and cognition with cutting-edge computer science and AI to transform learning outcomes for millions of learners. Adaptive learning is a computer-based teaching system that adapts in real-time to the needs of each learner. By using a personalized approach to replicate one-to-one interaction in a digital environment, Area9 adaptive learning models allow for efficient scale. Such personalization increases efficiency, as well as engagement, by taking into consideration what each learner has already mastered.

Speaker: Khurram Jamil, MD, President – Strategic Initiatives, Area9 Lyceum After earning his medical degree in 2002, he chose to advance health care outside the clinical area. He co-founded Area9 in 2006, partnering with McGraw-Hill to deploy adaptive learning technology. Since then, more than 30 million students have used LearnSmart & SmartBook (property of McGraw-Hill Education – acquired in 2014). At Area9, which is a global learning technology company, Khurram focuses on regional expansions, joint-ventures and partnerships, as well as oversees projects for all levels of education and training. His entrepreneurial experience extends over 20 years. He has led dozens of teams comprising of medical professionals and educational scientists, spearheaded large development and partnership efforts, and managed multi-million-dollar educational software development projects. Dr. Jamil is a cultural bridge builder and is involved with various cultural & art organizations to support building creative and reflective societies. Amongst these, he serves on the Education Council of the Center for Global Education (CGE) at Asia Society. Full Bio: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/khurram-jamil-81b752/>
